REVISED INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH PROGRAMS ANNOUNCED

Government loans will become government grants under a revision of the Program for the Advancement of Industrial Technology (PAIT) announced by the Department of Industry, Trade and Commerce.

Previously, the program provided loans of up to 50 per cent of the total estimated costs of approved development projects. These loans were repayable if the project was successful. Now PAIT contributions will be straight grants of up to 50 per cent of development costs and need not be repaid. In some exceptional cases assistance will be available for more than 50 per cent of these costs but the amounts above 50 per cent will be repayable.

In the four years since PAIT was established some $20 million of a total government contribution of $30 million has been spent. To the end of June, 32 projects had been completed successfully providing a benefit in terms of sales estimated at more than $128 million over five years. A total of 220 projects have been approved for support.

At the same time, two changes in the Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP) were described by R. D. HISCOCKS, Vice-President of the National Research Council. The first change removes the five-year time limit on individual projects. The second change is in the requirement that additional staff always must be hired for an individual project to qualify for support.

Dr. Hiscocks also described the new Industrial Post-doctorate Fellowship Program under which the NRC provides a number of awards, valued at $7,200 per year, to encourage highly qualified science and engineering students in the graduate schools to seek careers in Canadian industry.

Another NRC project is a deferred scholarship program which permits a graduate who wins a scholarship at the baccalaureate level to postpone acceptance of the award for one or two years if he spends this period working in industry.

The Defence Industrial Research Program (DIR), outlined by H. SHEFFER, Vice-Chairman of the Defence Research Board, provides grants to companies or groups of companies incorporated in Canada, for research to be performed primarily in Canada. The grants are non-refundable and are for specific research projects of broad defence interest.

The program enables Canadian industry to compete for research, development, and ultimately production contracts in U.S. and NATO defence markets.

IMPENDING DISSOLUTION OF JOINT SOCIETY

What may have been the last meeting of the Philosophical Society of The University of Alberta and the Humanities Association (Edmonton), was held Thursday, February 19. In recent years the two groups have had a joint executive and held joint meetings.

Speaking to the annual business meeting, the retiring President, CHARLES DAVIS, Professor of Religious Studies, recalled that the two groups had a long and distinguished history of lively public lectures, dealing with varied subjects of interest to all University disciplines and to members of the general community. In recent years, support for the programs has declined. Many of the services the two groups once rendered now are provided in the much enlarged University and city by other groups, many possessed of substantially greater resources. This past session, despite excellent speakers and a substantially greater expenditure on advertising, attendance was very poor. The joint executive, after reviewing the situation and its causes, reluctantly decided to recommend to the membership that the two societies disband.

The meeting resolved that unless the support and participation needed to continue the two bodies as viable organizations were clearly evident by September, no program should be planned for the next academic year and the two groups should dissolve, transferring their records to the University Archives and donating any moneys in hand to the University Library for the purchase of books in philosophy and the humanities.

To carry out this resolution the meeting appointed an interim executive, consisting of D. T. ANDERSON, Associate Professor of Law, and J. A. PLAMBECK, Assistant Professor of Chemistry.

CANADA COUNCIL LEAVE FELLOWSHIPS AWARDED

Canada Council leave fellowships worth up to $7,000 have been awarded to five University of Alberta professors. The fellowships will support research projects to be undertaken during sabbatical leave from September 1, 1970 to September 1, 1971. The recipients were: P. J. SMITH, Professor and Chairman of Geography; F. A. DE LUNA, Associate Professor of History; B. G. RULE, Associate Professor of Psychology; ULRICH TRUMPENER, Associate Professor of History; and JUAN FERRATE, Professor of Romance Languages.

In total, 135 fellowships valued at about $1,000,000 were awarded this year to scholars in the social sciences and humanities across Canada.

Professors Smith, de Luna, Trumpener, and Ferrate each received fellowships of $7,000. Dr. Smith will engage in research in Edinburgh on the political morphology of that city, in an endeavor to evaluate the role local government plays in an expanding city. Dr. de Luna will conduct research in Amsterdam, Paris, and London on Jules Guesde, the founder of the French Marxian Socialist party. Dr. Trumpener's research will deal with Germany during World War I in preparation for a general history and more specialized studies in the same period. Professor Ferrate will work in Barcelona on a book on the fundamentals of poetics.

Dr. Rule's fellowship of $3,120 will support her studies on theoretical and earlier works on aggression.
